

THE INTEL STORY

David Marsing, VP Intel

"One of the things we saw as a result of bringing Human Dynamics to large groups of people within a new factory, was that we experienced the fastest rate by which groups of people got to know not only themselves but the other people on their teams, and became able to take on more abstract and much more difficult projects, to the point that it allowed us to accelerate the start up in that factory.

Right now it is Intel's largest factory and it is running at a world benchmark level of performance. We do not think we could have achieved this had we not taken a vast majority of the people in the factory through Human Dynamics as part of a developmental road map to enhance the capability of the whole organization.

As a result of the efficiency of our production, we did not have to build another factory that had been planned. In today's terms this saved Intel between one and two billion dollars investment."

Subsequently, Human Dynamics training was extended to Intel plants in 5 other countries.

The Human Dynamics® Program for Personal, Interpersonal and Team Development is designed to give you the knowledge, tools and practices that will enable you to:

- ▶ Become aware of and fully leverage your own natural capacities
- ▶ Recognize and promote the natural capacities of others
- ▶ Further develop your mental (rational), emotional (relational) and physical (operational) capacities
- ▶ Adapt your communication with others so that each individual will "hear" you
- ▶ Save time by quickly resolving conflicts
- ▶ Build strong relationships with others
- ▶ Promote in your organization a culture of harmony, mutual understanding and extraordinarily productive teamwork

Identify, understand, value and capitalize on your innate way of:

Processing Information • Learning
Thinking • Planning • Undertaking Tasks
Problem-solving • Communicating
Relating • Leading • Mentoring

Human Dynamics® is a body of knowledge that is a breakthrough in revealing and identifying inherent differences in how we process our experiences.

It describes how three universal principles – mental (rational), emotional (relational) and physical (operational) combine in people in specific patterns of mental, emotional and physical interplay characterized by distinctly different ways of experiencing life and operating in the world. These distinct patterns are called personality dynamics.

Remarkably, these different personality dynamics appear to be so foundational in the human makeup that they can be seen the world over, identified at every age level (even in babies), and observed in males and females equally. In other words, these distinctions are more fundamental to who we are and how we function than age, race, culture, or gender.

Without the awareness and training that Human Dynamics offers, these differences in our ways of "being" and operating, commonly become sources of conflict and misunderstanding, which can lead to a lack of productivity.

With the Human Dynamics® training, the differences can be recognized and utilized as complimentary assets and used to develop organizational cultures that are harmonious, mutually supportive, and characterized by incredibly productive teamwork.
